WAGE EARNINGS COMPARED WITH LIVING EXPENSES

Increase Greater In Latter Than in Former.

Wage Earner Is Confronted With This Annoying Situation Says Commissioner of Labor Shipman In Annual Report—The Average Wage Received by Different Trades In State Set Forth In Report.

Raleigh, Oct. 14.—In his introduction to the chapter on trades in the forthcoming annual report of Commissioner of Labor and Printing M. L. Shipman, the commissioner declares that "wage-earners have not yet been enabled to recover the favorable conditions that prevailed for some years prior to 1907. A season of depression probably effects this class of the state's citizenship more than any other, in that it forces them out of permanent employment and brings about the necessity of searching for positions or remaining in enforced idleness. It may be suggested truthfully, however, that these avocations commonly termed "the trades" and embracing representatives possessing experience and ability have afforded employment more regularly, if at reduced wages, than the daily wage-worker in many of the mill villages, lumber plants and other industrial centers, where the more efficient class of labor is not in demand. But while general conditions are yet unfavorable there are comparatively few skilled laborers willing to work for a reasonable wage, out of employment in any section of the State.

"The wage-earner is confronted with a most annoying situation in the demands upon his earnings for actual living expenses. Prices for home necessities have advanced out of proportion to his earning capacity. A condition and not a theory stares him in the face, but he represents a type of sturdy manhood which always responds when duty calls. And the hope is expressed that the laborer may again be 'worthy of his hire' rather than a citizen searching for full visible means of support."

An enterprising departure from the past practices of the department of labor and printing has added to the report for 1910 a showing of the general conditions affecting wage-earners, in the broad sense of the term shown in the compilation of information obtained from correspondents who are engaged in the various trades, themselves.

The report shows the following average wages of the different trades in vogue in this state: Barbers, $1.50; blacksmiths, $1.58; brickmasons, $2.75; boilermakers, $3.24; cabinetmakers, $1.75; carpenters, $1.95; conductors, $3.35; engineers, $5; firemen, $2.45; hostlers, $1.65; lathers, $2.25; letter-carriers, $2.65; linotype operators, $3.31; machinists, $2.10; molders, $2.50; motormen, $2; painters, $1.80; paternmakers, $2; plasterers, $3; pressmen, $2.40; printers, $3.25; salesmen, $2.50; section foremen, $1.85; stonemasons, $2.25; warper, $1.15.

Thirty-four per cent of the reports shows increase in wages the past year. Fifty three per cent made full time last year. Twenty-nine per cent. made over time; twenty per cent favor ten hour day; fifty-nine per cent an eight hour day, and sixteen per cent a nine hour day; ninety per cent report improvement in educational conditions and seventy three per cent improvement in morals.

Powerful Bomb Discovered.

Paris, Oct. 14.—A powerful bomb was discovered by the police today at the foot of a tree in the avenue Klober, near the American embassy. The officers attribute the attempted outrage to anarchists who sought to put new ginger into the apparently dying railroad strike.

CAROLINA ASSOCIATION AGAIN

Present Complexion of League Will Remain Unchanged For Present—Salary Limit Reduced.

The directors of the Carolina Baseball Association held a meeting in Charlotte Thursday night. Regarding the meeting yesterday's Charlotte Chronicle says:

The complexion of the Carolina Baseball Association will remain the same, for the present, at least, but with a salary limit of $1,250 instead of $1,500, as it has been heretofore. These and other important decisions were arrived at by the board of directors of the association in this city yesterday afternoon. The action in regard to the reductions of the salary limit was unanimous and the directors were also unanimous in their decision to keep in force the rigid method used the latter part of the last season for the enforcement of the section regarding the salary limit. The managers of the teams are not to be included in the salary limit.

About the first business transacted yesterday was the adoption of resolutions retaining the original franchises in the league for the present, the city of Anderson, the weakest town in the association, being given a stipulated time to decide definitely whether they desire to put out a team next season. Mr. Furman Smith, president of the Anderson club, declared that so far as he was concerned that Anderson would have no team next year, the proposition being too expensive. In the event that Anderson pulls down Durham or Salisbury or possibly Asheville may take up the franchise. It now seems practically assured that the league will be practically thte same as it has been, Anderson being the only town that is considering surrendering its franchise.

President J. H. Wearn desired to submit his resignation at the meeting yesterday, but the directors insisted that he remain at the head of the league until the spring meeting, at which time they are determined that they will prevail upon him to hold the office during the next season. A large amount of business was postponed until the spring meeting for obvious reasons.

The reduction of the salary limit from $1,500 to $1,250 was long and well considered and the action will no doubt meet with the approval of all interested in baseball in the association. The league but follows the example of the Virginia State League, which reduced from $1,750 to $1,250, while it is understood as practically settled that the South Atlantic League will follow the same course.

THE LYCEUM COURSE.

Ralph Bingham, Entertainer, Here Monday Night in First Number.

The first number of the Greensboro Lyceum Course will be given Monday night at 8 o'clock in the annex of West Market Street M. E. church when Ralph Bingham will be the attraction. Mr. Bingham is doubtless without an equal in the funmaking line and he will be heard by a large audience. Fiddling "Bob" Taylor, ex-governor of Tennessee, says of Bingham: "I consider my friend Ralph Bingham to be the finest all around entertained on the American platform."

The Philadelphia Bulletin says: "Ralph Bingham, as a monologue artist, has no equal on this side of the Atlantic at least, and as a musician he has few peers."

Miss Phelps to Lecture Tuesday Night.

The temperance address by Miss Phelps in West Market Street Methodist church Tuesday night, the 18th, is free, and Greensboro people will enjoy a treat in hearing her. The following testimonial is interesting:

Miss Phelps is an educated, refined, cultured, Christian woman and all are helped who hear her. Her influence is only for good.—W. C. T. U. Herald, Iowa.

THE BUCHANAN STREET PAVING

Southern May Protest Against Improvement.

Attorney J. N. Wilson Before Aldermen Yesterday Afternoon Regarding the Matter—Railway Company Does Not Want Grade of Street Changed and If This Is Done Objection Will Probably Be Raised—Action Postponed.

It is quite probable that there may yet be a hitch in the proposition to pave a portion of Buchanan street with vitrified brick, the preliminary steps having been taken at a former meeting of the board. The Southern Railway Company, which corporation owns the property abuting one side of the street to be paved, will likely make objections to the improvement on the street at an adjourned meeting next Wednesday night at which time action on the matter will be taken.

At the former meeting it was ordered that notice be served on the abuting property owners to appear before the board yesterday afternoon to show cause, if any they had, why said improvement should not be made and the abuting property owners taxed with one-fourth of the costs of the work. No party appeared to make objection, but Mr. J. N. Wilson, counsel for the railway, appeared and requested that action be deferred until later or that the Southern be given the right to have the matter reconsidered later if action was taken yesterday afternoon.

The trouble in part is regarding the proposed change of grade in the street. The other part is regarding the bay like projection from the street to the passenger station. It has been understood by the city officials that the Southern was not only willing to pay its proportionate part of the cost of paving the street proper, but would also pave the ground between the street line and the passenger station. In view of this fact the city proposed to change the grade, making the street better and less dangerous in wet weather. This would necessitate the lowering of the portion next the station about one foot and would require a step from the street to the platform running around the station. Now, however, the Southern claims that it never agreed to pave the ground between the street and the building and to change the street grade would entail considerable expense on the company. If the grade is not materially changed then the Southern will not raise any objection to the improvement, but otherwise it will most likely do so. Just what effect the objection would have remains to be seen.

The city contends that if the street is to be paved with brick it is equally essential that the portion of ground between the street proper and the building be paved with the same material. This ground covers equally as much space as the street itself and is used just as much, being for the use of hotel busses and baggage wagons. With the street improved and this convex piece of ground left as it is would give the place an unsightly condition and it is believed that public sentiment would force the railway to pave the ground.

Attorney Wilson stated yesterday that the railway was anxious to do everything to keep on the good side of the city officials and the general public as well and for this reason would not object to the improvement on the street unless, as the company saw, compelled to do so to protect itself.

After discussing the matter it was moved that action be deferred until Wednesday night at an adjourned meeting in order to give the engineers time to carefully survey the street and recommend a grade.

Several other matters were attended to, none being of consequence.

Married Last Night.

Last night at 8:30 o'clock in the office of the register of deeds Mr. William Sparrow, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Miss Celia Crabtree, of Washington City, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Squire S. S. Mitchell. The couple are members of one of the shows that exhibited at the fair this week.

Time flies on swift wings when you are listening to George Stuart's lecture on "Lopsided Folks." 1t

THE FAIR NOW PAST HISTORY

Annual Event Closed Yesterday Afternoon.

Was Declared to Have Been Most Successful Fair in History of the Central Carolina Fair Association—Some of the Agricultural Exhibits Will Be Carried to Raleigh Next Week—Fair-Sized Crowd Out Yesterday.

The Central Carolina Fair for 1910 is now a thing of the past. The annual event looked forward to for months past by the people of Guilford and adjoining counties came to a successful close yesterday afternoon, the final feature, excepting the fireworks last night, being the racing in the afternoon. While the attendance was nothing to be compared with that of Thursday it was fully as large as is usually the case on the last day.

Yesterday afternoon the work of removing the exhibits was begun and many of the booths had been cleaned out before the last of the visitors had left the grounds. The live stock and poultry was nearly all removed during the afternoon. Some of the shows began pulling up stakes, but the larger portion kept open until after the fireworks last night.

The farmers were busy gathering up the produce on exhibit, but a number allowed their exhibits to remain until this morning when they will be packed and shipped to Raleigh to be exhibited at the State Fair next week. Hundreds gathered in the agricultural building to watch the farmers take down their exhibits and as the luscious fruits and tempting edibles, the latter being displayed by the ladies, were being packed their mouths actually "watered for a bite." The farmers cannot be praised too highly for the care and effort taken in arranging such creditable exhibits of farm produce. It was a revelation to many to know that so many articles, and such fine ones, could be raised from Guilford soil. Prof. I. O. Schaub, of the State Department of Agriculture, states that some of the agricultural exhibits were the finest shown at any of the fairs in the State. It is almost certain that the agricultural building will have to be enlarged before the next fair in order to accommodate the exhibits. The farmers are taking an increased interest in the agricultural exhibits each year and the exhibits not only grow better, but there is an increased number. Several of the boys in the corn contest will take their exhibits to Raleigh also to compete for prizes offered in the State corn club contest for the best specimens of corn raised by boys. These contests have aroused great interest in corn raising among the boys. It is the intention of the fair management to make a specialty of this department next year and considerable money will be given as premiums.

The Racing Yesterday.

The racing yesterday was enjoyed by a large number of spectators. The results follow:

First event—2:17 trot. Purse $500. Time 2:14 1-4. First money Charley Mitchell, entered by H. R. Tyson, Newark, Del.; second Igo, entered by I. G. Steele, Newark, Del.; third and fourth divided between Jeff McGregor, entered by Frank Rousen, Augusta, Ga., and Judge Palme, entered by Slagle, Petersburg, Va.

Second event—2:17 pace. Purse $300. Time 2:14 1-4. First money Roy Wilkes entered by H. Cannon, Florence, S. C.; second Mary C, entered by M. McIntosh, Augusta, Ga.; third Tornia Wilkes, entered by Herman Tyson, Newark, Del.; third Miss Austen, entered by F. A. Barnes, Roanoke, Va.

There was also a running race of five furlongs, the purse being $200. The entries were Lamptrimmer, Euripides, Diamond Dick and Firebrand. As he rounded the half mile post Euripides broke his leg just above the hoof. The injured animal completed the heat, however, without faltering. A veterinarian was hastily summoned and the injured horse given the necessary attention. The bone was broken short off and it is hardly probable that the horse will ever be used for racing again.

The Fireworks.

A good sized crowd saw the final exhibition of the fireworks last night at the fair grounds and all were well pleased with the show. This has been one of the most enjoyable features of the fair and the success of the three exhibitions show that Mr. Angelo knows his business when it comes to putting up and setting off the fireworks.

GREAT LECTURE TONIGHT

George R. Stuart, of Cleveland, Tenn., to Give His Greatest Humorous Lecture on "Lopsided Folks" at 8:30 o'clock at the New West Market Annex.

There are many reasons why the people of Greensboro and vicinity want to hear George R. Stuart, the famous American lecturer and evangelist, tonight. It is a fact that he is the largest paid lecturer in the South, and one of the five largest paid lecturers in America, and yet lecturing with him is a side line which shows the breadth and height of the man. Wherever he goes, North or South, the people flock to hear him, no matter what the occasion or the subject. He is one of those men who cannot be described or defined, but must be heard.

Then the lecture that he is to give on "Lopsided Folks" is rich beyond description, and as rare as men of his stamp. Able press comments and personal testimonials bear all this out to the letter. Those who have heard him on this unique subject say that it is humorous beyond one's power to express himself in laughter, and effective in a very profound sense.

The cause for which he comes appeals to the big spirit of Greensboro people, who take pleasure in securing everything that is good for the city, and are bent on making a success of it after securing it. There is hardly a citizen in town who would not, if canvassed, give more than the price of a ticket to help the ladies of Spring Garden Street M. E. church pay cash for their new pews to be installed this month. The price too is reasonable for a high class lecture. One usually pays a dollar for lectures of this class, but these people are giving this opportunity for twenty-five, thirty-five and fifty cents. Think of it! It will be worth this to be present at the opening occasion in the magnificent new Sunday school building in which it is to be given and to hear the music to be given by the G. F. College Glee Club, which is always heard with great pleasure.

The lecture comes on a night when there is no other attraction in the city, and at an hour when practically all can attend. The rush of business will be over by the time to begin, and there will be ample time afterwards for those who need to, to return to their business and make final adjustment before closing for Sunday.

Tickets will be on sale during the day at the Greensboro Drug Co. on the corner, and at the church tonight. Those who attend the lecture will do well to buy their tickets early, as it looks now like some will be turned away for lack of room. Those who do not hear him will doubtless wish they had after hearing others tell about it.

LITTLE CHILD BADLY HURT

Marguerite Whitaker, of 1217 Walker Avenue, Has Foot Crushed by Wheel of Heavily Loaded Wagon.

Marguerite Whitaker, the six year old daughter of Rev. C. H. Whitaker, 1217 Walker avenue, fell from a wagon on Spring Garden street yesterday afternoon and had one foot run over and badly mashed by a wheel of the wagon. The wheel passed over the other limb between the ankle and the knee, but it is believed that there was no fracture of the bones of this limb, the child being so nervous last night that the attending physician, Dr. George W. Norman, was not able to ascertain with certainty.

The accident occurred in front of Prof. E. J. Forney's residence. Marguerite and several other children were getting a ride on one of the Pomona Terra Cotta Company's wagons, which was heavily loaded with pipe. Marguerite fell off between the wheels, one of them passing over the feet and legs of the little one.

She was carried into Prof. Forney's residence and Dr. Norman was sent for to render the necessary attention. Later she was removed to her home.

The injuries are serious but Dr. Norman said that the wonder was that they were not worse as the vehicle was a heavy double wagon and loaded with terra cotton pipe.

Knight-Harrison.

On Thursday at noon at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Roger W. Harrison, College Place, Miss Kate Harrison became the bride of Mr. Thomas Sharp Knight, of Hopkinsville, Ky. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edmund Harrison, father of the bride. Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Knight left for a wedding trip north before going to their future home in Hopkinsville.

TOBACCO SALES BREAK RECORD

This Week an Especially Busy One.

More Tobacco Sold In October To Date Than In the Whole Month In Any Previous Year—Guilford's Good Roads Have Much To Do With the Improved Condition of the Tobacco Market—The Buyers Very Active.

Tobacco warehousemen in Greensboro are wearing broad smiles these days. The reason is that more tobacco is being brought here now than in years.

Less than half of October is gone, yet more tobacco has been sold in the warehouses here this month than has been sold during the entire month of October in many years.

Tuesday of this week there was a mammoth "break," 51,000 pounds being sold at one warehouse. Wednesday and yesterday the sales were not so large, but they were nevertheless very gratifying to the tobacco people. Today a big sale is expected.

There are said to be two reasons for the healthy tone of the tobacco market here. One is that the roads in Guilford, dirt as well as macadam, are so good. Greensboro is getting a good share of Rockingham's tobacco and much from Alamance. The tobacco growers say that it certainly is a great relief to their stock to strike the good roads of Guilford. The stock may come into our roads tired and jaded, but almost instantly it begins to freshen up so easy is the pulling.

Another reason for the unsual influx of tobacco into this market is that the buyers here are somewhat more active than usual. The entire tobacco manufacturing interest of the country is represented on the floors of Greensboro's tobacco warehouses—the American, the Imperial, Reynolds, and all the independents including the factory of Mayor Stafford which gets all of its tobacco right here on the Greensboro market. The buyers want the tobacco and they are paying prices, that by comparison with the prices paid on other markets, bring the tobacco here.

The money paid out for tobacco is having its effect toward improving trade conditions.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF THE WOMAN'S CLUB

At Meeting This Afternoon At Library Dr. J. L. Mann Will Speak.

The parents of the children attending the city schools are invited to attend a meeting of the educational department o fthe Woman's Club at the Library at 4 o'clock this afternoon. This meeting will afford an opportunity for the parents to meet Dr. Mann, superintendent of the city schools, as he is to be present.

The officers of the educational department are rather disappointed at the lack of interest on the part of the mothers and say that the teachers are much more loyal and have made sacrifices to be present while the attendance of others has not been satisfactory. The original idea was to bring about a spirit of co-operation between the school officials and the parents. The teachers necessarily keep abreast of school matters but have expressed themselves as being pleased at having an opportunity to broaden the scope of their work by frequent conferences with parents and others interested in the schools as those having charge of the children at home can add much to the child's advancement by a better understanding of present and proper school methods.

Woman Gets "Black Hand" Letters.

Madison, Ga., Oct. 14.—At the meeting of the Georgia division of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union here yesterday a sensation was caused by the presentation of two "black hand" letters received by Mrs. Mary Armour, former president of the organization and prominent as a lecturer in prohibition campaigns. The letters warned Mrs. Armour to forthwith quit her speaking tour in Missouri in the interest of prohibition or suffer dire consequences.

You will find George Stuart's lecture on "Lopsided Folks" intensely amusing and thoroughly entertaining.

LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING.

Is the way Miss Alta Abel, of West Baden, Ind., summed up her existence after having sought in vain for health. She writes, "I was a complete wreck—always tired, worn out and nervous. I had to spend about one-third of my time in bed, and my life was not worth living.

Vinol, your delicious cod liver and iron tonic, was recommended, and I can truly say it has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took in my life. That nervous and tired feeling is all gone. I have gained in health, flesh and strength, until I feel like another person." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

What Vinol did for Miss Abel, we know it will do for every nervous, run-down, over-worked, tired, thin and discouraged woman in this vicinity.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Fariss-Klutz Drug Co., Greensboro, N. C.

LLAMAS IN HARNESS.

Zebras, Elephants and Camels Also Driven in Ringling Bros'. Parade.

A team ol llamas pulling a fairy tableau float, is one of the novel sights found this year in Ringling Brothers' street pageantry. There is also a team of eight zebras, which are supposed to be unbreakable. Six elephants, driven tandem, and hitched to an immense British Indian chariot of war is still another sight. A team of twenty camels, driven by one man, pulls another heavy art van.

From the great golden band chariot in the lead, with its team of thirty horses, to the fantastically carved steam siren wagon on the tail end three miles away, the parade is one long panorama of the wonders of the world. It unfolds into startling pictorial surprises before the eys of spectators. It discloses a thousand novelties. Every mile is a mile of wonders, peopled with strange human types from every civilized and uncivilized land on the earth. Over 650 horses and two-thirds of the elephants in America are shown.

Ringling brothers have surpassed all their brilliant records with this new spectatcle. It was built in the foreign workshops of the show in England last winter, by an army of the most skillful of Italian and French artists and originators. It cost the management over $1,000,000. Only the best materials were used. The wagons, dens, chariots, floats, howdahs, rickshaws, thrones, ships of state and palanquins are hand-carved and burnished with pure gold-leaf. The costumes are of the finest silks and broadcloths. They were designed and woven in France. The flags, banners, scarfs and standards are expensive works of Japanese art. The harness is silver mounted.

This parade is equivalent to a tour of the world at the price of nothing. It brings before the eyes of the people a world of more strange sights of foreign importation than a tourist could see in a year's travel. Oriental rajas, ameers, pashas, caliphs, sheiks, barbarian despots and savage chieftains,with their retinues and regal trappings, reflect the splendors of the earth's kingdoms. The warriors of the enlightened nations and the boomerang throwers and heathen club swingers of remote islands ride on cavalry horses and in the characteristic war vehicles of their own fashioning.

In the children's section there are pumpkin carriages, golden chariots, fairy river barges, enchanted palaces, floating carpets, diamond grottos, submarine fairy domains and allegorical floats, peopled with the characters of mythology and child-lore. All the myths of Mother Goose's realms are there. The feteday scenes of quaint countries are depicted and the charms of the Carnival of Venice are reproduced.

Ringling Brothers will give two performances in Greensboro on Monday, Oct. 24. It will be the most important circus holiday in the history of the city. Since it was last seen here this circus has grown and improved to such an extent it will scarcely be recognized. For many years it has been the biggest and best amusement enterprise in the world. Its coming is always hailed with delight. This year it means much more in the way of enjoyment and education. It is an all-European show, with nothing about it that has been seen in the past.

A WEIGHTY REASON.

It Told Why One of the Nineteen Commissions Was Executed.

Before a certain gentleman set out for Japan and India his relatives gave him errands. One wanted an Indian shawl, another a silver Buddha, a third a chryselephantine carving, and so on, till the list of commissions was appalling. He agreed, however, to fill them so far as possible.

But when he returned he had executed but one of the nineteen commissions that had been given him. He had brought back only the chryselephantine carving. This he gave to one smiling cousin amid the disappointed looks of the other relatives. Why, the disappointed ones asked, had he executed that one particular commission and disregarded the rest?

The traveler smiled. "It happened," he began quietly, "that each of you had written your commission on a sheet of paper. On the second day of the voyage out I took all these sheets of paper from my notebook, opened them and spread them on my lap as I reclined in my steamer chair.

"The air was very still at the time, but suddenly a brisk wind sprang up, and every sheet was blown away except that of Cousin Max. Max's sheet was weighted down with the gold coin he had given me to pay for his carving."—St. James' Gazette.

WIFE GIVES BLOOD IN VAIN.

Strapped to Husband During Transfusion Ordeal When He Dies.

New York, Oct. 13.—With his wife bound to him on the operating table of St. John's Hospital, Brooklyn, where he had just undergone an operation for blood transfusion, Policeman Harry J. Folger, died after an illness of nearly four weeks. Mrs. Folger had volunteered to undergo the ordeal in the hope of saving her husband, who suffered from intestinal hemorrhages. Folger had been known as the "perfect policeman," having passed his physical entrance examination for the department with 100 per cent rating.

When the operation was decided upon Mrs. Folger went on the operating table, and remained there 10 hours before the transfusion was stopped. Then it was found that Folger did not rally, and having no other volunteers at hand, the physicians consented to a second transfusion from Mrs. Folger to her husband. This was immediately undertaken, but the policeman died while his wife was still strapped to him.

A Half Solved Mystery

By MARIA L. COOPER

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Despite the opposition of my parents and certain head shakings on the part of intimate friends, I persisted in my engagement to Edward Illsley. There was something about him beyond these warnings that made me uncomfortable. He would make an engagement to be with me during an evening, break it and give no satisfactory explanation. After he had done this several times I resolved the next time to corner him by forcing him to tell me where he had been. When that next time came round he claimed that between the hours of 8 and 11 he had been at home. Without his knowledge I asked his sister as to his whereabouts on the evening in question, and she told me that he had not been at home, but said he had been with me.

This convinced me that he was deceiving me, and I told him he must either make a clean breast of the matter or I would break our engagement. He took a solemn oath that he never left his home between 6 o'clock during the evening he was supposed to be with me and 9 o'clock the next morning. When I asked how that could be he told me that to tell would involve others whose acts he had no right to divulge.

Curiosity now became my dominant motive. I would have broken with my fiance had it not been that I believed I could get his secret by remaining engaged to him, whereas if I sent him away I would never know it. I pretended to be very much hurt at his want of confidence in me, and he seemed equally put out that I did not feel assured his statement was true and because I should endeavor to force him to reveal a secret which involved others.

The result of a half hour's probing gave me the impression that he was connected with several persons of both sexes who were united by some secret bond, but that this bond was of any especial importance did not appear. It did not in any way explain how Edward could have been in the house for three hours one evening when he was supposed to be visiting me. And what had the events of these three hours to do with the persons whose secrets he would betray by making an explanation?

After a long period of questioning and waiting, questioning again and waiting again, I gave up trying to get the secret. I, however, applied one test before taking final action. I asked to be admitted to this coterie of which Edward was supposed to be a member. He said that I must be elected and the number was complete. By this time I knew that I should get no satisfaction, and, since I was not minded to marry a man who had a secret from me, I broke the engagement.

All this was a few months before the great earthquake when our city was destroyed. Among those who did not turn up after that dreadful calamity was my former fiance. His house was one that fell at the first shock, and only one member of the family had had time to escape. This person said that Edward Illsley was not in the house at the time of the quake. When the debris was removed every body was found except his. This indicated that he had probably been killed elsewhere. But, though his friends kept track of all the bodies taken out, his was never found—at least not identified.

Very naturally I connected his mysterious disappearance with the reasons for which I had broken my engagement. If I had been puzzled before I was more puzzled now. A new development was that one of Edward's most intimate friends was among the missing, and his body was not found. There were other persons not accounted for, but the man mentioned was the only one I happened to know as one of his friends. This deepened the mystery for me, though for me alone, for I never revealed what Edward had told me, or, rather, what he had not told me.

One morning I took up a newspaper and saw an explanation of the mystery that was haunting me so persistently that I was beginning to break down under it. The paper contained an announcement that the lot on which I knew had stood the Illsley house had been purchased and the foundations taken out to make way for new ones. A space had been walled up, evidently by amateur masons, and covered with an arched brick roof, the entrance to which was an iron door. The door being forced, its latch was found to have been wedged by the earthquake so that it could not be opened. There had been entrance from without through a cellar door.

Inside this inclosure, which was furnished, were found five skeletons—three men and two women. On a table lay a note addressed "To Those Who Shall Find Our Bodies," stating that they were pinned in by what they supposed to be an earthquake and were starving to death. The only information as to the cause of their being there were the words, "Our secret dies with us."

I have alluded to this as an explanation. It was an explanation that threw me into a far greater state of curiosity than before. I am consumed day and night with a desire to know what could have been the object of this secret coterie.

Roosevelt in the nation and Butler in the State make a first rate platform for the Democrats.

Wilmington's growth in the past ten years was not up to Charlotte's, but a gain of five thousand is not bad and we feel that the City by the Sea has cause to take courage and press on.

The management of the Fair could hardly have asked for anything better in the way of weather. Barring the threatening clouds of early Thursday morning which possibly kept some away the weather was ideal.

A concern in New York which swindled the public out of a hundred thousand dollars was found to have neither safe nor books. It doesn't take much paraphernalia to make an impression on some folks. A smooth tongue is all that is needed.

That the argricultural display at the Fair was better than ever before is cause for rejoicing. It betokens more and better farming. And more and better farming is probably more needed than almost anything that could be mentioned.

There is universal praise for the service to and from the fair grounds given by the North Carolina Public Service Company. In fact the street car service was so good that it is said the railroad people are very much dissatisfied with the patronage given them. Dispatcher Frazier, of the street car company, is receiving deserved praise for his excellent work.

It is agreeable to know that business on the Greensboro tobacco market is looking up. There is really no good reason why Greensboro should not be much more of a tobacco market than it is. Now that it is coming into its own in this respect, the good work should be kept up. Greensboro is paying as good prices as are being paid anywhere and perhaps better. Let every one unite in circulating this information as widely as possible.

Edmund V. Wright, of Ocean Grove, N. J., is an ex-Republican. The reason he is an 'ex" is that he believes the G. O. P. has lost its respectability. Now he is going around with Woodrow Wilson urging the people to vote for that great man for Governor of New Jersey. He said at Caldwell, N. J., on Wednesday:

I speak to you as an old Republican, who was a Republican when that party was respectable. There will be a revolution in this country that will restore it to the ancient principles of the fathers. For fifteen years it has been in the hands of the money power—the trusts. There is to be a healthy recuperation of the Democratic party, and the day of its dawning is here.

TRUTH FOLLOWS THE HONEYMOON

Partners Early See the Others' Bad Faults and Try To Make Reformations.

Baltimore Evening Sun.

The correspondent who writes for directions for conducting herself during her wedding journey will have the sympathy of all persons who have undergone honeymoons on their own account.

There are persons who have started off together on their wedding trips with the best feeling in the world for each other and have returned realizing that they have made a frightful mistake.

Which was probably because they had no rigid rules to guide them during this period of criticism.

It will be remembered that David Copperfield was awed, not to say astonished, to find that Dora's beautiful curls were the result of her hair being put up in paper overnight.

He discovered at the same period that his little wife knew nothing about ordering meals and little about personally conducting servants.

Some of these trials the modern husband does not encounter. No one puts her hair in papers any more, and the patent curler of the period is not as disfiguring as the ignorant person would think.

The first blow may come to the new husband when he orders dinner at the hotel early in the honeymoon. Always up to this moment, when the twain has taken dinner at a restaurant or hotel, the woman had handed him the menu, and, with an air of perfect trust and confidence, has said: "You order; you always choose exactly the thing I like."

Now she takes the menu card away from him. "Suppose I do the work," says she. "You always run so to starchy vegetables."

So in hurt surprise he sees her order all the things she likes best herself, paying small attention to his preferences.

"When we get home I am going to have the meat carved in the kitchen; you don't seem to know the head of a fowl from its tail," says she, when he carves.

But she injures his feelings worst of all when she remarks: "Dear, I have always wondered who chose your cravats—you wear such queer ones."

But the soul-searching frankness is not all on the part of the bride. The honeymoon has hardly commenced when the bridegroom remarks: "I feel now that I can talk to you about something which has disturbed me for a long while. Don't you wear too much dead stuff in your hair?"

"Dead stuff in my hair?" she echoes stupidly.

"Yes; Chinese queus and such things to make those puffs. Give them up, won't you? I like a simple coiffure, such as Angelica wears."

Angelica was her hated rival. The bride-elect feels as if someone had dashed her with cold water.

"You told me you thought I had beautiful hair," she falters.

"Well, a man in love could hardly be expected to tell the exact truth, could he?" aks the bridegroom carelessly.

The honeymoon is a time for sad awakenings; it is the period when each party to it finds out almost exactly what the other thinks of his personal appearance, habits and disposition.

You can love a person without entirely approving of him; almost every man determines mentally that his wife shall not do some of the things his fiancee does; every woman resolves that as soon as the marriage ceremony is performed she will reform her husband in various particulars.

As a result of these determinations the honeymoon is often a distressing time, during which, as likely as not, each of those interested wonders whether he was not too precipitate, after all.

Really tactful brides and bridegrooms do not begin the work of transforming their partners for at least a month, but alas! there are so many who are not tactful that quarrels and recriminations and tears are not unknown during the honeymoon days.

A man's fighting qualities don't always show on the surface. Even the game cock is chicken-hearted.

Etiquette.

The very high sounding word etiquette had a very humble origin, for etiquette meant simply a label. It derived its present meaning from the fact that a Scotch gardener who had laid out the grounds at Versailles for Louis XIV. was much annoyed at the courtiers walking over his newly made paths and at length had labels placed to indicate where they might walk. At first these labels were ignored, but a hint from high quarters that in future the walks of the courtiers must be within the "etiquettes" or labels was promptly attended to. To keep within the "etiquettes" came to mean to do the correct thing.

LIBRARY FUND ALMOST IN SIGHT

While But Little More Than Seven Hundred Dollars Will Be Raised in Campaign Trustees Have Formulated Plans For Securing $2,500 Worth of Books For Institution—But Few Reports Received Last Night.

While it is not expected that more than $700 will be raised for the book fund of the library in the campaign inaugurated last week the trustees of the institution have formulated plans whereby they expect to secure $2,500 worth of new literature for the institution as originally intended when the whirlwind campaign was announced.

At the meeting of the workers last evening less than a dozen, including captains, were present and only about $50 additional was reported, this running the total subscriptions up to a little more than $600. However, several of the captains, who were unable to be present, have stated that they had several subscriptions and it is safe to state that when all the returns are in the subscriptions will reach the $700 mark.

The ladies have agreed to assist in the work of securing literature for the empty shelves of the library and it is believed that several hundred volumes of valuable works will be donated by people who have read books and laid them away on the "also read" shelf. The books will be almost if not as good as cash and will fill a long felt need. As to raising the remainder of the money, or its equivalent in books, the trustees are keeping their plans to themselves for the present.

AMERICAN CHRISTIAN CONVENTION TO MEET.

Sessions Will Be Held In Troy, Ohio, Next Week—President Moffitt, of Elon, To Attend.

Elon College, Oct. 14.—President Moffitt leaves the first of next week for Troy, Ohio, where he will attend the sessions of the American Christian Convention in its quadrennial session, beginning Oct. 19 and closing Oct. 26. President Moffitt is a member of the Educational Commission of this body, which is the high deliberative and legislative body in the Christian church in the United States and Canada. This session of the convention is a most important one by reason of the introduction of the custom of having commissions of experts on the various lines of church enterprises. The most important matter to come before this body at this time however, will be the election of an editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty, which is the national organ of the church and the consideration of changes in the Sunday school and C. E. methods now being pursued.

The members of the faculty and their wives met Sept. 28 at the home of President Moffitt to consider the organization of a club to hold bi-monthly sessions and to devote itself to the research and the social life. At this preliminary meeting a permanent organization was executed: Dr. J. U. Newman, president; Dr. E. L. Moffitt, vice president, and A. L. Lincoln, secretary. A committee on constitution and by laws was appointed as follows: Prof. Wicker, Prof. Amick, and Prof. Brannock. This committee was to report at the first regular meeting of the club to be held Oct. 12, at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Lawrence. Accordingly at this time the club met and chose as its name the Cosmopolitan Club and decided to elect such other persons as members as the membership committee with the approval of the club should suggest.

CROCKERY FOR OLD SOLDIERS

Tin Plates, Cups, Etc., Replaced by Crockery and Granite Ware—Mrs. Peddy Gives Up Fight to Retain Posseseion of Her Little Daughter—Also Agrees For Son to Be Kept by Kinsman.

Raleigh, Oct. 14.—The old soldiers out at the Soldier's Home are reveling in the use of some brand new crockery and granite ware to take the place of the old tin plates and cups that have been doing service in both the dining room and the hospital departments all these years. The change is especially pleasing to the old veterans. And gives the dining table a very much more inviting appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith, of Bladen county, win out in their contest for the possession of the little Peddy girl, Maxine, involved in the habeas corpus proceeding brought against them by Mr. Bessie Peddy, mother of the child, Mrs. Peddy withdrawing her suit and consenting to let the Smiths have both the little girl and her four year old son, Claudius, as well. She does this rather than undertake to combat in the courts the charges of unfitness for the care of the children brought against her by the Smiths in fighting for the retention of the girl. The Smiths adopt both the children and give them their name. They have just taken the children with them to Bladen county where Mr. Smith has extensive business interests in farming and lumbering. There was quite a scene when the Smiths left with the children. At the last minute the mother at the depot declared that she could not bear to see the child leave. She held on to the girl until the train pulled out. Then it was necessary for the mother, the Smiths and contending counsel to hold another conference before the Smiths were allowed to leave with the children. The mother is to be allowed to see them occasionally.

Wednesday evening, Oct. 19, there is to be at the Yaroborugh house in this city a meeting of the general agents of life insurance companies doing business in North Carolina for the organization of the North Carolina Life Insurance Underwriter's Association. The officers of North Carolina insurance companies are also invited to attend and designate representatives from among their staffs to hold membership as associate members. Tame Eagles.

A man living near Tromso, in Norway, is a great lover of wild birds and has succeeded in taming three eagles. He took them on the mountain side while they were young and, according to the London Field, kept them a couple of years in captivity. As their craving for liberty, however, grew stronger and stronger he at last let them loose, but they have settled down in the neighborhood of his home, and when he ascends the height which has become their favorite resort with fish or a newly shot seagull they quickly discover him from afar and come majestically sailing through the air, settling down beside him. Their meal over, they willingly allow him to pet and stroke them before they again make for the rocky islets, but they will not allow a stranger to approach them.

Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. FOUR PER CENT. PAID ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS.—FOUR PER CENT.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a dollar saved and a dollar spent is just two dollars. Did it ever occur to you that way? It's worth thinking about.

Another difference is the feeling you have afterward. The dollar saved gives you a feeling of real pleasure—it may call for a little sacrifice for the time being, but afterward you feel better for having denied yourself and the dollar is still yours. That is the nice thing about having money in the bank—you have saved it—it is still yours—you can have it when you wish.

We make it a part of our business to urge you to have a bank account at this bank, for it not only helps our business but yours more so.

To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Greensboro.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidney and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning, also causes headaches, dizzy spells, lanquor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a fellow sufferer tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Ella. J. Hughes, Dixie St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times for several years and they have never failed to give me prompt relief. Some time ago I suffered from severe pains in the small of my back and I had frequent spells of dizziness, caused by disordered kidneys. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they quickly removed the cause of all my suffering. I have had slight returns of the trouble since but Doan's Kidney Pills always bring satisfactory relief."

WANTS INDIAN FOR HUSBAND.

Connecticut Girl Decalres She Is Bound to Capture One.

Alberqueque, N. M., Oct. 13.—Declaring that she will not quit courting until she has captured a real live Indian husband, an apparently refined Connecticut woman, who gives her name as Miss Sanford, of Derby, is making love to the Navajo bucks at the Ship Rock Agency.

The Indians are holding their annual fair at the agency, and with the large attendance Miss Sanford is confident she will find some Redskin who will marry her. She arrived before the fair opened, and the agent could not get rid of her.

He is now advising the Indians not to have anything to do with her, hoping she will go when all have rejected her advances.

THREE YEARS LATE.

A Train That Won the Behind Time Record Medal.

A train of a railway system in the southwest once arrived at its destination nearly three years late. The circumstances were these:

The train left Bolivar, just across Galveston bay from Galveston, on Sept. 8, 1900, and was caught in the great storm that so nearly destroyed the Texan city. Bolivar is seventy-five miles from Beaumont, which was the point of the train's destination. Before the train had traveled far on its journey it was caught in the storm. Thirty miles of the track were washed away, and the train was left stranded on a sandy waste. Many persons who lived on Bolivar peninsula were saved from death by taking refuge in the train. After the storm subsided they walked to Bolivar with the passengers, but the abandoned train was left on the prairie.

The storm bankrupted the railway, and no effort to rescue the engine and cars was made until 1903. Had not the road suffered so seriously in that storm the property would have proved of great value a few months later, when oil was struck at Beaumont. In 1903, however, the road underwent repairs, when the train was drawn into Beaumont, where it was greeted by a cheering crowd.—New York Press.

The Diplomatic Room.

One of the most interesting and most visited places in Washington is the diplomatic reception room in the department of state, where the secretary of state transacts his business with the envoys of foreign governments. This room is close to the secretary's office and looks southward to the Potomac, the Washington monument looming up with stately effect at the left. Thursday of each week is set apart for the diplomatists, who are received in this famous room by the secretary of state or the official who may be acting in his absence. The room itself when not occupied by the foreign representatives is open to the public. In it most of our treaties of recent years have been signed, and many have been the notable assemblages gathered within its walls.—New York Press.

Prices Paid by Forty-niners.

Here is the price list on the "carte" of the Eldorado hotel of Placerville, Cal., in the days when it entertained the forty-niners. "Payable in advance," it proclaims; "gold scales at the end of bar."

A "square meal, with dessert," is priced at $3, and other items that probably interested the patrons of the Eldorado are set forth as follows: Beef, Mexican prime cut, $1.50; beef, uplong, $1.50; beef, plain, $1; beef with a potato, fair size, $1.25; beef, tame, from the states, $1.50; also two potatoes, medium size, 50 cents; two potatoes, peeled, 75 cents; hash, low grade, 75 cents; hash, 18 carat, $1; rice pudding, plain, 75 cents; rice pudding and brandy peaches, $1.—Los Angeles Times.

Eleven In a Bed.

In early Victorian times the workman was accustomed to rough it. Isabella Fyvie Mayo in her "Recollection" mentions that one flourishing firm of bakers—patronized by royalty—"kept eleven men and had only one bed for them all. During the twenty-four hours they occupied it turn and turn about. One of these unfortunates was generally in Charing Cross hospital, and the 'master' got a reputation for generosity by his yearly subscription to its funds."

Very Likely.

Albert—A dog that runs under a carriage is called a carriage dog, is it not?

Egbert—Certainly.

Albert—Well, what would you call a dog that runs under a motor car?

Egbert—Why, a dead one.

Economy of Time.

Friend—I say, one of your clocks is slow and the other's fast. Young Lawyer—Yes; I start work by the slow one and stop by the other.—Life.

Discretion of speech is more desirable than eloquence.

Many a fellow who tells a girl he would die for her nearly keeps his promise when he has to eat her cooking.

Woman's Friend

Nearly all women suffer at times from female ailments. Some women suffer more acutely and more constantly than others. But whether you have little pain or whether you suffer intensely, you should take Wine of Cardui and get relief.

Cardui is a safe, natural medicine, for women, prepared scientifically from harmless vegetable ingredients. It acts easily on the female organs and gives strength and tone to the whole system.

TAKE CARDUI

J 38

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Verna Wallace, of Sanger, Tex., tried Cardui. She writes: "Cardui has done more for me than I can describe. Last spring I was taken with female inflammation and consulted a doctor, but to no avail, so I took Cardui, and inside of three days, I was able to do my housework. Since then my trouble has never returned." Try it.

People Who Work Indoors With Their Hands

Seamstresses, watch-makers, artists, draughtsmen, and many others, cannot properly handle their tools with cold, stiff hands. Many a lost hour or two on cold winter mornings results from the delayed heat of furnace or stove.

The Perfection Oil Heater in a few minutes gives the temperature that assures the worker warm hands and pliable muscles. The quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so the wick can be quickly cleaned.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It has a damper top and a cool handle. Indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain, and cannot get lost.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

DIABETES

We have the following unsolicited letter from James T. Douglas, Harrisburg, Oregon:

Harrisburg, Oregon, June 25, 1908.
John J. Fulton Co., Oakland, Cal.,

Gentlemen:—I have had Diabetes for over two years and was almost in. Was very weak and could hardly walk. A friend of mine told me of the Fulton Diabetic Compound, and I have now taken thirty bottles and am feeling fine, and can say that I am sure if I had not gotten relief in some way I would now have been under the sod. Hence, I can speak for your compound. It did the work for me. What will you charge me for three dozen bottles?

Yours respectfully,
JAMES T. DOUGLAS.

Another—Same mail brought a letter from R. B. Fickling, the druggist in Blackville, S. C., from which we quote: "I have had a customer who had Diabetes in its worst stages. I have gotten him out of bed on the Diabetes Compound and have run out. Send duplicate of last order."

Diabetes is rated the world over as incurable, but recoveries are being reported daily through Fulton's Diabetic Compound. You may ask how it is possible for a person to recover under the Fulton treatment when medical text books admit they have nothing for it. Let us say in reply, that when the late John J. Fulton discovered he had Bright's Disease and that the text books had no specific for inflammation of the kidneys, which was the real difficulty, he set out in a new direction to evolve an emollient that would reduce inflammation in the kidney tissues. He worked it out and inflammation of the kidneys all along the line from kidney trouble to Bright's Disease, even the chronic forms, is now curable in about eighty-seven per cent of all cases.

Diabetics took it upon the theory that as Diabetes is an impairment of functions that are closely related to the urinary processes, it ought to get relief in that trouble, too.

It did, but much more slowly than in distinct kidney trouble. This led to a modification of the treatment for Diabetics, with the result that Diabetes is also curable in nearly nine-tenths of the cases in people of middle age and upward. (Kidney disease commonly abounds in all ages.)

For Kidney Disease, ask for Fulton's Renal Compound.

For Diabetes, ask for Fulton's Diabetic Compound.

Patients whose cases do not respond are requested to write John J. Fulton Co., 645 Battery street, San Francisco, Cal.

BROTHERS END WAR ENMITY.

Meet Accidentally on Street After Many Years Apart.

New York World.

Samuel Graham, of East Forty-ninth street, Bayonne, N. J., a Grand Army veteran, returned yesterday from his vacation which he passed at Charleston, S. C., where he was reunited on one of the main streets to his brother, Robert Graham, whom he had not seen in over forty years.

While Samuel took sides with the Union his brother enlisted with the Confederates. They became estranged. When they met face to face both hesitated and then grasped hands, and for the remainder of his visit Samuel was the honored guest of Robert.

Good results always follow the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They contain just the ingredients necessary to tone, strengthen and regulate the kidneys and bladder, and to cure backache. Sold by Howard Gardner.

MINER INHERITS FORTUNE.

Fortune Awaits Patrick McGrannahan, Near Wilkes-Barre.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 13.—A fortune of $87,000 awaits Patrick McGrannahan, a por mine worker supposed to be employed in a colliery near this city.

His uncle, a former colonel in the British Army, settled in India, after he retired and became an exporter, and when he died a few weeks ago had accumulated a fortune of over $90,000. He willed all of this, less taxes and other charges, to his only nephew, from whom he had last heard in a letter dated Wilkes-Barre, March 27, 1908.

McGrannahan was at that time, he wrote, working in a mine near Wilkes-Barre and boarding with a Mrs. Reilly.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way. Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. R. Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed and I gained 47 pounds in weight. RIGHT HAND RULE.

The Way It Is Applied In Driving and In Navigation.

London's drivers, sitting on the right side of the driver's seat, turn to the left. Why? In order that looking down at the right side of the vehicle they may gauge to a fraction of an inch the hubs of a vehicle meeting them. In the United States the driver still preserves the right side of the seat and in turning to the right of the roadway has the least knowledge of where his hubs may be in passing.

But in international navigation the right hand rules always obtain. It is the narrow channel winding into a port where the extremest of emphasis is laid upon the vessel keeping to starboard, no matter how many crooks and turns and loops the channel may make.

This was illustrated in a collision on the Whangpoo river, in China, when the Pekin and the Normandie collided. The Normandie was descending the stream, keeping to starboard. The Pekin was ascending the channel, keeping to its starboard. At a sharp turn in the channel the two boats collided. The Pekin's master declared that owing to the sharp bend in the river it was a "crossing" case, in which the Normandie was to blame.

In the house of lords, however, it was held that the right of any channel of any degree of sinuosity lay at the right of the channel's center; that, therefore, when the Pekin failed to observe the rule in the sharp bend and "cut across" it became an offender against the law and must pay damages.—Chicago Tribune.

A Generous and Charitable Wish.

"I wish all might know of the benefit I received from your Foley's Kidney Remedy," says I. N. Regan, Farmer, Mo. His kidneys and bladder gave him so much pain, misery and annoyance, he could not work nor sleep. He says Foley's Kidney Remedy completely cured him. Sold by Howard Gardner.

LEPROSY CURE IN TWO YEARS.

President of Hawaiian Medical Society Makes Promise.

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—"Within two years we will be curing leprosy by wholesale. I am sure the cure has at last been found."

So said Dr. St David Gynlais Walters, president of the Hawaiian Territorial Medical Society.

"The cure," said the Doctor, "is being developed under the commission sent to Hawaii by the Federal Government to aid the local investigators in their researches. This commission consisted of Dr. Brinckerhoff, now of Harvard, Dr. Currie and Dr. Hollman. These men have been at work on the serum theory of treatment for the past four years.

"The commissioners worked along the lines begun by Moses T. Clegg, of Manila, a civilian scientist, who was able to propagate the leprosy bacillus. Shortly before I left the islands Dr. Currie was able to demonstrate before our society the fifth generation of leprosy bacillus."

THE HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS RALEIGH THIS AFTERNOON

Team Leaves at Nine Forty This Morning For the Capital.

The football team of the Greensboro High School will leave this morning at 9:40 for Raleigh, where they will play that city's football representatives on the A. & M. gridiron during the afternoon. The boys spent yesterday afternoon in hard practice, and will leave today in fine trim for the battle. By their victory over Bingham Wednesday the locals have gained a lead, as the Prep. school team tied with Raleigh.

The team will carry twelve men and will be accompanied by Prof. A. H. King, principal of the High School. They will return on the early Sunday morning train.

The boys who form the team are: Foust, center; Bond and Fisher, guards; Dixon and Maus, tackles; Lindau and Harry, ends; Coffin, (Capt.) quarterback; McDuffie and Yates, half-backs; Grimsley, full-back; Taylor, substitute.

GEORGE R. STUART,
Who Will Lecture on "Lopsided Folks" In West Market Annex Tonight.

Trapping Muskrats.

Numbers of mechanical traps to catch muskrats have been invented and tried, but none gives more satisfaction than the old floating barrel trap that has been in use for many years. Both ends are left closed, and a hole about eight by twelve inches square is sawed in the side. A strong cleat is nailed across each end, the cleats projecting six or eight inches beyond the barrel, and upon the cleats are nailed two boards, one on each side of the barrel and several inches longer. Water then is placed in the barrel so that it will float with the board platforms about on a level with the surface of the pond or stream. About one-third of the barrel remains above water. Apples, carrots and other delicacies that the muskrat likes are placed in the barrel. In their attempts to get the bait the animals fall into the barrel and are unable to get out.—Exchange.

Proving His Authority.

There was an Irish foreman of a gang of laborers who went to any lengths to show his men that he was the real boss. One morning this foreman found that his gang had put a handcar on the track without his orders.

"Who put that han'car-r-r on the thrack?" he asked.

"We did, sor," one of the men answered respectfully.

"Well," he said shortly, "take it off ag'in!"

The laborers did so with some difficulty.

"Now," said the foreman, "put it on ag'in!"

Great Scheme.

"What do you do," asked the one who had been married only a few months, "when your husband comes home late at night?"

"I pretend not to notice that it's late, and pretty soon he asks me if I wouldn't like to go to the theater or somewhere tomorrow afternoon."

Startling Encouragement.

"Was Amelia's father encouraging when you went to him to ask him for her hand?"

"Not very. He asked me to put the proposal in writing, so I couldn't back out, as all the others did."

Don't fail to hear George Stuart tonight at West Market annex on "Lopsided Folks." 1t
